

NYPH David H.Koch Center

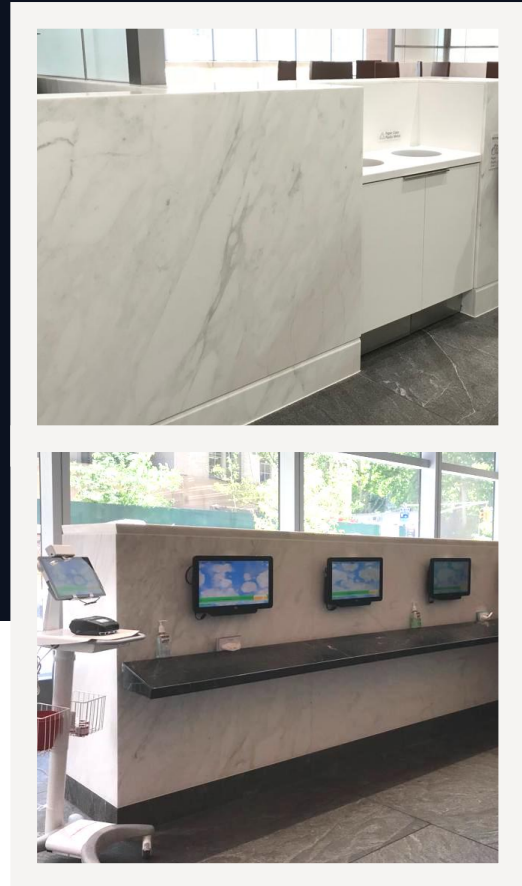

HEALTHCARE

Property: New York Presbyterian Hospital

Architect: Pei Cobb Freed & Partners

Year of completion: 2017

Location: New York City (NY), USA

Material: Calacatta Caldia® honed

Thickness: 1, 2, 5 and 8 cm

Size: CTS

Quantity: Approx. 300 m²

At the NewYork-Presbyterian David H. Koch Center, patients receive integrated care and undergo complex procedures in a technologically advanced and flexible structure. The facility's primary services include a comprehensive suite of services in a contemporary and soothing environment with a focus on the human experience.

Calacatta Caldia® is the perfect solution also for hospitals and care facilities thanks to its durable, easy-to-clean and hygienic nature. The MGI Group supplied its marble for reception desk, security check-in points, café countertops and elevator cabs.

